DETAILED ACTION

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicants' submissions, filed 9/22/06 and 11/17/06, has been entered.

Amended claim 21, filed 9/22/06, is acknowledged. Claims 1-20 and 36-88 remain withdrawn as being drawn to non-elected Groups. Claims 28-31, 34, and 35 remain withdrawn as being drawn to non-elected species.

Claims herein under examination are 21-27, 32, and 33.

Claims Rejected Under 35 U.S.C. § 112 1st Paragraph

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. § 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Factors to be considered in determining whether a disclosure would require undue experimentation have been summarized in Ex parte Forman, 230 USPQ 546 (BPAI 1986) and reiterated by the Court of Appeals in In re Wands, 8 USPQ2d 1400 at 1404 (CAFC 1988). The factors to be considered in determining whether undue experimentation is required include: (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount or direction presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6)

the relative skill of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims. The Board also stated that although the level of skill in molecular biology is high, the results of experiments in genetic engineering are unpredictable. While all of these factors are considered, a sufficient amount for a prima facie case are discussed below.

LACK OF ENABLEMENT

Claims 21-27, 32, and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 21 is directed to identifying a compound that is an inhibitor of a Tie-2 protein by crystallizing the protein, obtaining atomic coordinates, using the atomic coordinates to define the active subsites, identifying a compound that binds to one or more active subsites, wherein the compound which binds to the active subsite or sites is an inhibitor of a Tie-2 protein. How does one skilled in the art determine if a compound is an inhibitor merely by determining if it fits into an active site? One skilled in the art would not conclude that a compound that binds to an “active subsite or sites” of Tie-2 is necessarily an inhibitor, since this compound could equally be an activator (agonist) or have no effect, depending on where and how it binds. One skilled in the art would need to have additional information, such as information regarding which residues of the protein interact with known inhibitors or some other comparison of binding properties to known inhibitors. The need for this additional information demonstrates that further experimentation/information would be necessary to determine if an inhibitor has actually been identified. Because of the experimentation necessary, the unpredictability of knowing whether a compound inhibits, activates, or has no effect on a protein due to its binding ability to one or more active subsite(s) on a protein, and the breadth of the claims, there is a lack of enablement.

Claims 22-27, 32, and 33 are also rejected due to their dependency from claim 21.

Conclusion

No claim is allowed.
